Gym Rings Training Programs

The table on the next page contains a wide selection of Gym Rings drills.
Muscle Growth

- increase your dietary intake by 300-500 Kcal per day
- train each body part 2-4 times per week
- every time complete 3-4 sets per exercise x 8-12 repetitions.
Aim for 10-15 sets per muscle group per week (legs, chest, back, biceps, triceps, shoulders)
When you train with Gym Rings you will use core muscles (abs, spinal) for most drills, so you do not really need to perform any core specific exercises.

Strength improvement

- choose more difficult drills that allow you to perform 1-6 repetitions at once
- train each body part 2-6 times per week
- every time complete 3-4 sets per exercise x 1-6 repetitions.
You can also have a combination of drills with few reps and higher reps in the same session.

How to keep on improving continuously?

- increase the difficulty of the training every week – more reps for the same exercise, more difficult angle, more sets per drill, more difficult drills, add weight
- be consistent – never train less than two sessions per week
- do not allow yourself to detrain (lose your gains)
- maintain a healthy lifestyle – sound and adequate nutrition, 8 hours of sleep every day, no alcohol, smoking or other bad habits

Super busy lifestyle training

If you are quite busy, with children or elderly to take care off and other obligations you can try this system below.

- Perform different sessions from 5 minutes a session (3 sets of dips) up to 40 minutes a session (3-4 sets for every body part)
- Aim for 10 sets per week per body part; for example, you can do 2 sessions (Monday, Thursday) of Chest Training 5 sets each or 3 sessions (4-3-3 sets, Monday, Wednesday, Friday) or 5 sessions of 2 sets each. A 3 sets session will take 5-6 minutes.
- This way you can do multiple mini sessions throughout the day (Morning, lunch, late afternoon, evening) and get all done in a week
- Prioritize the Chest, Back and Legs drills because they involve biggest muscle groups
- Minimum weekly training - 30 sets of Chest, Back and Legs exercises – 50 – 60 minutes total time (75% results)
- Complete weekly training - 70 sets (10 sets for each Body part and Specialty moves) – 100 – 150 minutes total time (100% results)

Chest 10 sets	Incline push-up	Push-up	Push-up-pike	Incline flies	Archer push-ups
	Dips (elbows wide)	One hand push-ups	Archer dips	Flies	Weighted push-ups
Back 10 sets	Incline rows	Rows	Wide rows	Incline pull-ups	Pull-ups
	Archer pull-ups	One arm pull-ups
Legs 10 sets	Two legs squat	One leg squat	Bulgarian split squat	Lying hips thrust	Pistol Squat
	Split squat with weight	Pistol squat with weight
Shoulders 10 sets	Incline flies	Y-flies	Pike push-ups	Inverted upright rows	Hand stand push-ups
Triceps 10 sets	Incline triceps extension (face down)	Incline triceps extension (face up)	Dips (elbows close to the body)	Triceps extension (face down)
Biceps 10 sets	Incline biceps flexion (face up)	Alternate biceps flexion (face up)	Pelican push-ups (curls)	Incline one arm biceps flexion (face up)
Specialty moves As you wish	Skin the cat	Muscle-ups	Front lever	Back lever	Iron cross

AMRAP Training

- For one session for one drill do 2 or 3 minutes As Many Reps As Possible

- Example Dips – 3 minutes. Normally let's assume that you can do maximum 25 dips in one go. Do 10 dips, then rest 10 seconds. Do 10 more, then rest 10 seconds. Do 8 more, then rest 10 seconds. Do 6 more, then rest 8 seconds. Do 3 more, then rest 6 seconds.....
- In 3 minutes you should be able to do your one time max reps x 1.5 – 2 reps, so if you can do 25 reps in one go, you should do 35 – 50 reps in 3 minutes.
- You can do more different drills in one session.
